DESCRIPTION

Bricklaying and Plastering involves laying bricks to construct brickwork. The term also refers to artisans who use blocks to construct blockwork walls and other forms of masonry. They build and repair walls inside and outside of properties as well as working on other kinds of brickwork, such as tunnel walls and chimney-stacks. The job of a bricklayer is to construct the first shell of a building.

The programme is designed to offer essential in-depth knowledge for all who want to pursue a career in bricklaying and plastering. Successful completion of the N1-N2 certificates could allow the learner to either become an artisan at a trade school or proceed to N3-N6 at Berea Technical College and qualify as a Civil Engineer. This duration for the bricklaying course is 1-year theoretical studies and the duration for the civil engineering programme is two years theoretical studies and two years' work integrated learning. The Engineering Program at Berea Technical College strives to develop within students the ability to think analytically and creatively, and to become effective problem solvers
